Nicole-Anna Dela and Nicolo Polo were born in 19th. My father was a wealthy trader who, along with my uncle Maffeo Polo, set up several trading posts in Constantinople, Crimea, and the Mongolian Empire, opening trade with the Middle East. Due to the nature of his profession, he did not stay at home in Venice with my mother and I, but instead resided in the Venetian quarters of Constantinople. However, in 1260 my father and uncle foresaw a political change in Constantinople and wisely turned their assets into jewelry and left for Asia, where they met Kublay Khan. At the same time, in Venice, my mother died, and I was raised by an aunt and uncle. I received a good education about the skills I would use in my future life as a trader, such as in foreign currency, handling cargo ships and evaluating. In 1269, my father and uncle returned to Venice and met them for the first time at the age of 15, but we should not have stayed long - in 1271, the three Polos went to Asia for what was supposed to be Marco Polo's Travels. Marco Polo was an important trader, traveler and explorer in the late 13th and early 14th centuries. He presented many new objects for people in Europe and Asia. His travels are documented in Marco Polo's biography of The Journeys. He is the most widely known trader since the Middle Ages. His travels later inspired explorers such as Christopher Columbus, Henry the Navigator and numerous European cartographers. He was born in Venice, Italy, in 1254. Mediterranean sea. Marco's mother is Nicole Anna Defuze. His mother died when he was Marco was born while his father was on the exchange. He was raised by an aunt and uncle. He lived in Venice. He is well educated on a variety of topics from theology to philosophy to history. He also taught the family business of the goods trade. He understands currencies, cargo ships, valuation and sale of goods. In 1260, his father and Uncle Maffeo went on a journey looking for goods. Their trips took them to China, known as Katei at the time. The two were traveling on the Silk Road. The Silk Road is a trade route connected to many cities along the way. Usually, traders have not traveled the entire length of the Silk Road. Traders will stop in certain cities for specific commercial goods. The journey took two men nine years. They returned with many interesting goods such as spices, silk, jewelry and ceramics. While the two men were in China, they met Kublai Khan, the Mongolian emperor who controlled the region at the time. A commercial trip to China When Marco was 17, he left with his father and uncle in China. They traveled along the silk road and bought goods along the way. Their journey will take them 25,000 miles through Persia, India and China. They also passed through the Gobi Desert on their way. The three men reached China after three years of silk road. Living in China, father and uncle Marco Polo have already befriended Kublai Khan from the earlier trip. Kublai Khan was happy to meet Marco when he arrived at what is now in Beijing. The two quickly struck up a good friendship. Marco was also in fear of the city and Kublai Khan. Marco Polo is impressed by the numerous objects in China. He looks at iron production, salt mines, silk clothes and intricate porcelain. His impressions of cities were no different. He was amazed by the infrastructure projects taking place such as the Grand Canal and other canals that have been used to connect out-of-town cities. Marco Polo learns to speak Chinese in a short period of time. In 1277, C.E. Kublai Khan appointed Marco as part of his secret council. Three years later, Marco was appointed tax inspector in Yangzhou. Marco also worked as a spy and envoy to Kublai Khan throughout China and the region. He even travels to what is current Vietnam and Myanmar while learning about different foods, culture, and people along the way. After 24 years on the road, Marco Polo is back in Venice. On the way back, he takes the monogonial Princess Kokachin to Persia. Their journey home was fraught with danger and only 117 of the 700 passengers survived. Marco Polo When Marco Polo arrived in Venice in 1295, the city was at war with Genoa. Marco joined the Venetian forces to fight against the soldiers of Genoa. He will be captured at the Battle of Kurzola and imprisoned. While in prison, he told his stories of a trip to compatriot Rustico from Pisa, who Marco's travels. Marco's adventures were published in a book called Travels of Marco Polo, also known as Il Milione. The book contains four parts describing Marco's journey to the Far East. The book will be published in Italian, Latin and French. Marco Polo also married his wife Donja Badoer in 1300 and has three daughters together. He died in 1324 from N.E. His body was laid to rest at the Church of San Lorenzo in Venice. Important facts about Marco Polo Marco Polo was born in 1254 in Venice, Italy. His father, Nicolo Polo, was a wealthy salesman.
